A virtual day of football fever

Boot-iful Boots

The first pair of football boots written about in history were a pair made for King Henry VIII, who ordered a pair for his Great Wardrobe in 1526. Before 1891 nothing was allowed to project out of the shoes worn by a footballer but after this small studs or bars were allowed and football boots as we know them today were born.

You will need:

empty cereal box
paper
paints
scissors
PVA or glue stick

front of boot

Print or copy the template. Stick your template onto the inside of a cereal box and carefully cut it out. Fold up the sides and back of the main part of the template and then stick on the front of your boot. Once the glue is dry, use paint to decorate your boot.
